Volcano is an exquisite creation made using a technique known as lost wax casting. This method of casting brass has been used for centuries and provides extremely clear and precise detail.

At the foundry we pour molten brass as if it were lava from a volcano. This runs randomly, forming an intricate network of layers that cover the surface leaving irregular shaped gaps through which light can pass.

An LED strip runs around the inner edge and allows light to emanate through the gaps and the brightness of the highly polished chrome metal finish is highlighted to create an almost magical feel.
